Navy V-1 Enlistees Not To Enter V-7

Postpone Play To March 14 When Script Arrives Late

Because of the late arrival of the play-script, the C. L. S. production of Arsenic and Old Lace has been postponed from March 7 and 9 to March 14 and 21.

Although it contains an unusual number of freshmen, due to the uncertainty of the army situation, the cast of Arsenic and Old Lace is not without dramatic talent.

Students are acquainted with John Jutt, freshman who has the lead, from his portrayal of Mary's brother in Mary Of Scotland. Before he came here, John appeared in a play once in every one of his four years at Roger Bacon School in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mary Cengel Well Known

Mary Cengel from Whiting is even better known from her characterizations in You Can't Take It With You, Mary of Scotland, and Cradle Song. Besides her appearances at St. Joseph's Miss Cengel has starred in several productions around Whiting.

Having seen her only once, the students are nevertheless expecting a notable performance from Miss Anne Anthony, because of her reputation for character acting in such dramas as Cradle Song and Fantasy of a Passion.

Joan Wood, of Rensselaer, who has the other feminine character, is known best here as the twirling, flighty toe-dancer in You Can't Take It With You. She was also seen in the operetta Pirates of Penzance, and Richard of Bordeaux.

Fr. Otte III

A sore throat kept the Rev. Joseph Otte, C.P.P.S., professor of Accounting, away from his post during the past week. Father Otte, also a prefect in Seifert Hall, is now back on the job.

Chicago Official Says V-1 Should Remain In School

Students enlisted in the Navy's V-1 program face the possibility of being transferred to the new Navy College Program according to the Bureau of Navy Personnel in Chicago.

Writing to the Rev. Dr. H. A. Lucks, C.P.P.S., Lt. Truesdell Wisner, U.S.N.R., said that V-1 students will not be put into class V-7. Instead, he intimated, V-1 enlistees will be enrolled under the Navy personnel when the joint Army-Navy college program gets under way.

The complete text of the letter to Father Lucks follows.

Bureau of Navy Personnel
Navy Department
Office of Naval Officer Procurement
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Father Lucks:

We have your letter of February 13.

As you possibly know, there is in progress of development a new Navy College Program and it is contemplated that V-1 enlistees will be transferred to it and be continued at a college selected by the Navy for a furtherance of their education.

Because of this fact, the transfer of V-1 enlistees to class V-7 is not contemplated.

It is recommended that students so enlisted stand by until their situation is cleared through the putting in effect the new Program.

Very truly yours,
Truesdell Wisner
Lieutenant, USNR
By direction.

Register For No. 2 Ration Book Now

Residents of Collegeville are registering for War Ration Book No. 2 this week at the office of the Rev. John Schon, C.P.P.S., treasurer of the College.

Because many of the students had to send home for book No. 1, which must be shown in order to register for book No. 2, Father Schon stated that registration will take place the rest of this week on the campus. However, he urges all students to register as soon as possible.

Close Hanley Award Tuesday Night; Date Looms For Essays

Members of the Science Department meeting with the Rev. Clarence Kroeckel, C.P.P.S., chairman, last night (Tuesday) set the date for submitting written essays for the Hanley Award Contest at April 1. They further agreed tentatively to hold the oral presentation of these papers on Saturday evening preceding Palm Sunday, April 17. Conflict with other campus activities, at the present time unforeseen, may necessitate shifting this date.

As in the past the contest is open to juniors and seniors majoring in science. There being at the deadline a rather small number of students who volunteered to enter the contest, it was recommended that a few more days be granted during which more can do so.

Science Group Votes In 16 New Members

At a special meeting of the Albertus Magnus Society, honorary science organization, on Feb. 19, sixteen new members were voted into the society by the regular members.

The names of the candidates, which had been presented at the previous meeting, were discussed and voted on by the organization's present members. The society, which is the only honorary society on the campus, requires a grade of 80 percent in the major and minor subjects of the student desiring admittance.

Vote In Members

New members voted into the club are Ralph C. Best, John Caron, Walter H. Corvington, Joseph Guckien, Joseph A. Hanley, Arthur R. Kern, Donald Leavitt, William Miller, John C. Pepper, John Rasak, Fred Schotthoefer, Chester F. Skrabacz, Donald E. Smith, Kenneth A. Stangler, Thomas P. Warapius, and James F. Welter.

The next regular meeting of the organization will be on Friday, March 12, at which time all new members are invited to attend. Scheduled to speak at this meeting is Jerome Kosinski, junior pre-medical student, who has not yet divulged the topic of his talk.

Sanguinist Bulletin Out With Catholic Press List

In keeping with the celebration of Catholic Press Month, the Feb. 24 edition of the Sanguinist religious bulletin carried a program for the lectures in the auditorium tonight (Wednesday) and a bibliography of the Catholic newspapers and magazines found in the College library.

Ex-Member Of Faculty Dies At Carthage

The Rev. Mark Hamburger, C.P.P.S., member of the college faculty from 1894-1903, died at Carthage, Ohio, Feb. 22, 1943. He was pastor of St. Mark's Church, Cincinnati, for many years but had been retired for the past ten years.

Program Marking Catholic Press Month In Theatre

Miss Eileen O'Hayer, associate editor of Extension magazine, Chicago, will speak to the students of St. Joseph's from the stage of the College Theatre tonight (Wednesday) at 7:15. The program is being sponsored by the Sanguinist Club for Catholic Action.

Richard Schreiber, senior from Ironton, Ohio, and president of the Sanguinists, will open the program. He will introduce the Rev. Thomas Grotenrath, C.P.P.S., founder and moderator of the Sanguinist Club.

Father Grotenrath will speak briefly on the purpose and functions of the organization. He will be followed immediately by Miss O'Hayer.

Will Receive Bibliography

All those who attend the program—offered as an observance in Collegeville of National Catholic Press Month—will receive a copy of the Sanguinist religious bulletin. This issue of the bulletin is given over entirely to a bibliography and brief criticism of the outstanding Catholic newspapers and magazines in the College library.

The program will be so timed that the audience will be able to attend the Puma-Naval Training Station basketball game. The tilt will be played in the fieldhouse and will begin at 8:30.

Glee Clubbers Begin Musical Rehearsals

With its forthcoming musical still in the nuclear stage, the Glee Club swung back to work this week after a short layoff during the week of the mission.

"It will be full steam ahead from now on," said the Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S. "We intend to furnish the students with a really well-rounded program of entertainment, tentatively, a review of songs from World War I to the present day."

Feminine Lead

MARY CENGEL, youthful Whiting (Ind.) actress, will play one of the feminine leads in the Columbian Literary Society's production of Arsenic and Old Lace. The play will be presented in the College Theatre on March 14 and 21.

Many Wear Uniform Of Commissioned Men

By Tom Brittenhan

Have you ever wondered what your chances are to be an officer after you are inducted into one of the armed forces?

If figures on the St. Joe alumni now serving with the various branches are any indication of your own future, the horizon seems pretty bright indeed. Fourteen percent of them are officers.

401 Men In Service

Approximately 401 St. Joe men are in one of the uniforms Uncle Sam passes out on his "G-I" ticket.

Officers Among Alumni

Of this number, 60 are now commissioned officers, according to figures obtained from the Rev. Sylvester H. Ley, C.P.P.S., editor of Contact, the alumni newspaper.

St. Joe men are serving in the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, Air Corps, and United States Merchant Marine. They stand watch from the Canal Zone to Alaska, from the far-flung Pacific battlefields to the desert sands of Africa.

125 In Army Khaki

One hundred and twenty-five alumni are in the Army, ground force and Air Corps. Fifty-eight are in the Navy, while in the Marines there are seven. Three serve with the Maritime Commission and one is in the Ferry Command.

These figures, based on names released by Contact, are a fair estimate of the number of alumni in service, but are, of course, still incomplete. New names are being added daily. Many of the 401 are in Officers' Candidate Schools; more will go.

Old timers say that the best kind of officer is one who goes in the ranks and works his way up. Even coming up the hard way—as these fourteen per cent have—your chances for succeeding seem rosy.

(Editorial)

Have you read a Catholic newspaper or magazine lately? If not, you're missing something.

Many people have a peculiar notion about Catholic newspapers and periodicals. They seem to think most newspapers or magazines edited by Catholics are apt to be dull, and certainly old fashioned in their outlook. But that's where many readers are wrong. That's where many readers are missing a mine of good information in Catholic newspapers, and a wealth of excellent articles and fiction in Catholic magazines.

This week's edition of the Sanguinist religious bulletin contains a list of all the leading Catholic newspapers and magazines available in the College library. Together with this list is an evaluation of those papers and magazines, telling you what you will find of particular interest in each of them.

Pick out one of those papers or magazines, one that appeals to you. Read the latest edition. Check up on the past ones to find out what's been going on. Follow it closely in the weeks and months to come. See if there isn't more to the Catholic Press than you first thought.

There is a peculiar philosophy being fostered out of the present war. Educators, ministers, and writers are attempting to breed hatred in the hearts of our fighting men, because, they say, a man cannot fight with all his heart unless he hates his opponent. In commando camps throughout the country our soldiers are learning how to fight hard, how to kill with deadly swiftness and in horrible fashions.

If the cause for which our country does battle is just, there is no need for hatred. A positive conviction should always arouse more true feeling and spirit than a negative one. If it is true—as propagandists have told us—that we are fighting for liberty and truth and justice, what other motive should be necessary, save our own strong belief in a way of life we do not wish to lose?

It would seem to be an admission of our wrongness to say that we must hate those we fight in order to fight well. Our courage and determination should grow out of the will for right. No other incentive should be needed. Fired on with the knowledge that the cause for which our fight is made is a just cause—and filled with courage grown out of that knowledge—we should be able to sweep away all small feelings, all false emotion; we should be able to win the war, and win the peace.

Following the Flickers

With Dick Schreiber

AS TIME WEARS ON Hollywood producers are getting "the hang of" propaganda pictures. They're making them more subtle. Take "Casa Blanca," for instance. There wasn't much preaching in it; it was more direct. And more effective.

England has been blazing the trail on good propaganda for years. And it seems as if she might have blazed a new path for the film industry. Noel Coward—one of Britain's foremost actors and playwrights—has just produced and starred in a picture called "In Which We Serve." This is the all-time propaganda classic: The story of a battleship, told simply and directly—and with good restraint of feeling that is so much a quality of the British. Perhaps a better era of war pictures is on the horizon. Time will tell.

Now for the reviews.

RITZ: Friday & Saturday

A double feature horror show is up. "Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon," and "The Mummy's Tomb." Both are good, judged from the thriller-chiller angle. Legion Rating (respectively): A-1, B.

RITZ: Sunday Through Tuesday

Movie producers have always said that the only thing you need for a box office success is a thousand beautiful girls and a good band. "The Powers Girl" has both. It stars Anne Shirley, Carole Landis, George Murphy, Dennis Day, and Benny Goodman's orchestra. Legion Rating: A-2.

PALACE: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

Lum and Abner, those two zanies of Pine Ridge, come back to the screen in another fun riot. This one is called "Two Weeks To Live." If you like your humor corny and aren't too particular how it is dished out, you may find this interesting. Legion Rating: Unavailable.

RITZ: Wednesday & Thursday

For those who like it "in the groove," the Andrews sisters—minus Abbott and Costello this time—come to silver sheet in what their press agent calls "their latest and funniest musical." It is called "Give Out Sisters." Legion Rating: A-1.

CAMPUS CAPERS

Well, here we are again, all ready to dig up the dirt and grime. What we need is an extra big shovel. Thanks anyway Dietrick, but a steam shovel is just a little too big . . . Platt says what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar. We wouldn't moan if we thought that cigars were something fictitious . . . The other afternoon Broncho tried to find a seat that would fit him. After much scouting around, he finally decided to haul the park bench from the football field to his room. Although it was a tight squeeze, he now rests in peace . . . O'Keefe and Price bring back memories of something we learned a long time ago. It goes something like this (censored) Give this a little thought and we are sure you won't get it . . . While sitting in our Chaucer class, we noticed Robert Schultheis's resemblance to that of Chaucer. Please, Mr. Chaucer, don't get angry at us . . . This semester Al Resetar and Joe Pavletich are rooming together. Our proverb, which fits this case exactly, is, "Never put two bears together, because one of them will get hurt." We wonder if that plaster will hold out in Seifert . . . Did you receive your cigarette from Wally Donahue? Most fellows pass out cigars on such occasions, but since his baby was only a baby chick Wally gave out economized cigars. But woe, the chick died. Officiating at the funeral were Wally and his chick-raising partner, Franchi . . . If your name is called in the refectory and you are puzzled, ask Ronan and Judge, two green freshmen, who got a boot out of being towncriers. Tom Hill received four letters written at two-hour intervals from the locality of Hammond all at once from the same source. Tom claims that he has set a record and is now letter champion. Jack Haley wants to advertise for a lost key. He thinks it is in the vicinity of the campus, but is not sure. We attribute the lack of news to the mission.

What Good Are Retreats And Mission Weeks?

By Vincent Giese

Why have missions or retreats? This was the question asked this week, now that the entire student body has completed its spiritual inventory. Here are the answers.

Leroy Huenefeld, sophomore from Bryan, Ohio, "We should have missions because from them the student receives inspiration which will help him lead a good life. They afford the student an opportunity to clear up difficult spiritual problems and encourage him to become a courageous Catholic and loyal Christian, proud of his faith, and ready to die for his beliefs."

Paul Reichert, sophomore from Coldwater, Ohio, "I enjoyed the past mission week in so much as it exposed me to a religious atmosphere over an extended period. During this time I found it hard to escape giving some amount of serious thought to the spiritual side of our brief terrestrial sojourn. This fact alone is good reason to have missions."

Bernard Way, freshman from Manchester, Mich., "I thought the sermons of Father Pire were very inspiring. The complete response and cooperation of all the students to the mission exercises proves their cognizance of a future life."

Stan Pukelis, sophomore from Chicago, Ill., "In this fast and furious world of ours man usually forgets why, where, and when he is going. Man becomes so engrossed in the temporal things that he forgets he has a soul or places an incorrect value upon his soul. He fails to give his final end enough consideration. The mission, to my mind, is a time out from worldly things. It is a time to reflect on three seemingly small questions, where are we going, heaven or hell? why are we going? and when are we going? And after our reflection it is our duty to map out and follow a course that will lead us to our final end. The spiritual value to those who make and live a mission is 'incomparable.'"

Senior Sketches

By Jim Channell

Although he just came to St. Joe this year, Paul Mainzer has the qualities which have made him known fast. Having transferred from the now closed De Sales College of Toledo, Ohio, Pee has "got around" at St. Joe by joining four campus clubs, writing for Phase and associating with the "Kentland Commandos" quite frequently.

If he weren't tied down with writing a thesis, Pee would be still more active, if we can judge from his past record. In his high school days at Sandusky, Ohio, he played varsity football for four years, wrote for the school paper two years—was sports editor—and still found time to place second in the state in a scholastic test. At De Sales, he was again sports editor of the campus newspaper, and in his junior year played guard on the football team.

"Pee" wants to teach after the war, and if he is as active in his life work as he has been in his scholastic career, his students will find their teacher doing ninety per cent of the work.

Paul will be prepared to graduate in June with an A.B. degree in education and an English major, if the army sees fit to leave him here long enough. He is a member of the Army Reserve Corps.

When he is taken, tent life will be nothing new to Paul, because he still remembers his summer at the American Legion Buckeye Boy's State in 1938. If the army has clubs, "Pee" will join them all.

Compulsory Physical Education Begins Here

Puma Prints

By Jim Welter

Warm weather of the past week has caused the baseball bug to bite many students. Thursday and Friday afternoons saw balls, bats, and gloves being employed by at least two dozen users.

If St. Joe's Cubs fail to win their home games, it isn't the fault of the Academy cheering section. Each contest finds the Cub rooters (about fifty in number) in a compact group on the west side of the fieldhouse court. Together they can, and do, give forth more encouragement to their team than anyone would suspect to be possible.

An interesting fact of last Wednesday's game with Earlham was that both the Pumas and the Quakers put a high scorer on the floor. For the Quakers it was Rex Anderson, but Don Schrenk's fancy guarding held the Earlham flash to three fielders and a free toss. The Quakers, however, had no one to handle the elusive Hoffman, who tallied twenty-two points.

Varsity athletes seem to be reacting favorably to the order that they must participate in physical training classes along with other students.

Charles Hodges, Petersburg, Ind., sophomore says, "I really think that it is a good idea for varsity men to be included in the physical training classes. The two hours per week added to our regular practice won't hurt anyone, and after all varsity players are no better than anyone else."

According to Don Schrenk, star guard from Seymour, Ind., "Varsity athletes rate no higher than anyone else when it comes to physical training. It makes no difference whether a person plays basketball or any other sport on the varsity squad or on an intramural team. The exercise is the same for both and so the extra physical training will benefit everyone."

Course Requires Students To Work Out Twice Weekly

As an advancement in the physical fitness program demanded of all colleges by the War Department, St. Joseph's began compulsory physical exercises on Tuesday in the fieldhouse. Intramural sports will continue along with the new phase of bodily fitness.

No one is excused from the all-embracing program except qualified seniors. All varsity players must also attend. Failure of anyone to attend will result in disciplinary action.

The students who are required to participate are divided into six groups which meet twice a week. These classes are Monday and Wednesday at 9:30 A. M.; Tuesday and Thursday at 9:30 A. M.; Tuesday and Thursday at 10:30 A. M.; Monday and Wednesday at 11:30 A. M.; Tuesday and Thursday at 11:30 A. M.; and Monday and Thursday at 3:30 P. M.

I-M Bowling Gets Off To Fast Start In First Week Of Play

Bowling met with unusual success in its first week. Although no old records were broken, or any new ones made, the attendance and good will of the contestants was nothing less than phenomenal.

This week Leroy Huenefeld maintained the best individual showing by bowling games of 195 and 186. John Feicht's team produced the highest collective score with a preponderant 740.

Pumas Tounce Earlham; Lose To Ill. Normal In Close Battle

After four successive major setbacks the Puma cage squad found themselves in the limelight again when they defeated Earlham College 51-43. The first half of the game was a tug-of-war, with a score close enough to be sensational.

The second half, however, was meant for Dienhart and the boys. With Bernie Hoffman slipping in field goals from all angles of the floor, it was soon evident that the Pumas were out for revenge over their recent defeats.

Body Beautiful Turner Hall Equipped With New Weight Set

BY JACK JUTT

Next Monday Turner Hall expects to open its doors to the aspirants of the body beautiful. At the request of students, the athletic department has purchased a "Big 12 Special."

This is the name given the 210-pound set of York barbells. It is one of the finest sets of weights made, and is complete with other muscle-developing equipment and exercise charts.

Since the Army and Navy have placed emphasis upon physical fitness, men throughout the country have become aware of their softness. And one of the surest ways to attain the desired toughness of body is through weight lifting.

Team Stays Home For Both Games; Expect Hard Tilts

Within a week Puma followers will have two chances in which they can witness the Cardinal and Purple hoop squad in action. St. Joe will attempt to balance their record at seven and seven tonight Wednesday at the expense of the Peru Naval Station. Next Monday night Indiana State will invade Collegeville for a return engagement with the Dienhartmen.

Heading the Peru Navy squad is Ensign Joe Platt, captain and leading scorer. Platt gained recognition as a member of Indiana's Big Ten championship outfit of 1939. Also included among the Navy's first-string personnel is Bill Bahler, ex-St. Joe cager.

Both St. Joe and Peru have met one common opponent recently, namely, Earlham. The Station boys came through with a 49-43 victory and since the Pumas defeated the Quakers 51-43, the contest looms as a closely matched battle.

When the Pumas entertain Indiana State next Monday, they will be trying to better their last attempt to upset the Sycamores. The final score of the game played at Terre Haute last Feb. 8 was 32-30 with the Pumas holding the wrong number.

Valparaiso Beat Them
The Sycamores finally met defeat last Friday night as Valparaiso crushed them 61-49. The defeat also dropped them to second place in Conference standings as Wabash took over the top spot.

The Puma-Sycamore tilt will be the last home appearance for seniors Bernie Hoffman, Conny Vanderkolk, and Curly Wisniewski. Bernie's great scoring of late has boosted his total to 188 for a 14.5 average which average is about one better than last year's.

Raleigh Club Stag Party Coming Up

Concerning the stag party to take the place of a dance on the Raleigh Club calendar of events, Bill Smith, president of the club, announces that the stag "get-together" will be held around March 1.

There has been as yet no general meeting held to determine the exact date. In the meantime the club is conducting its annual pool, ping-pong, and card tournament which begins today, Feb. 24.

Father Wuest Classifies Agents Of Chemical Warfare At Talk

Speaking on "The Classification of Chemical Warfare Agents," the Rev. Albert Wuest, C.P.P.S., delivered the second in a series of twelve lectures on the technique of chemical warfare on Tuesday, Feb. 23. The lecture, given in the demonstration laboratory, was attended by College students and townsfolk.

Father Wuest gave typical examples of chemical warfare agents, and told the effects of weather and surroundings on such agents.

"From the standpoint of their tactful use," he declared, "agents are characterized as persistent or non-persistent, and as quick or slow-action agents."

Classified War Agents

After discussing the tactful use of warfare agents, Father Wuest concluded his lecture by emphasizing the distinction in the classification of these agents. "Rigid classification of chemical warfare agents," he explained, "is made on the basis of (1) the purpose for which they are used and (2) the physiological effects they produce."

The next lecture will be given on March 9, and will deal with "The Physical Properties of Chemical Warfare Agents." The public is cordially invited. These lectures, sponsored by the Albertus Magnus honorary Science Society, are St. Joseph's contribution to Civilian Defense in this area.

Father Cletus Dirksen To Speak March 3

Continuing his series of lectures on the Papal Encyclicals, the Rev. Cletus Dirksen, C.P.P.S., professor of Economics, will speak on the Corporate State to members of the Sanguinist Club next Wednesday evening, March 3.

Father Dirksen will discuss the Christian hierarchical concept of social organization as contrasted with the Liberalistic concept of organization.

This hierarchical concept, Father Dirksen maintains, is conceived as a living organism, resting on the spirit of cooperation.

Another important development in his lecture will deal with the three different changes in the economic order of society which will be brought about by the Christian hierarchical organization.

Mimeographed charts, showing the arrangement of the Corporate State, will be distributed to those attending the lecture.

Close Mission Week Morning Of Feb. 20

Final services of the annual student mission were held Saturday morning in the College Chapel. The Rev. Lionel E. Pire, C.P.P.S., conductor of the mission, concluded his series of talks with a short lecture about the benefits to be gained from the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

Covering many fields in his series of lectures, Father Pire stressed particularly the theme of chastity and personal sanctity. He also discussed the temptations and hazards which might affect the spiritual life of those boys who now face military induction.

Perhaps the most noteworthy factor as to the success of the mission was the number of students who daily received Holy Communion. Normally, 150 to 175 Communions are distributed daily in the Chapel; but during the mission approximately 400 Communions were distributed every day, which indicated that there were approximately 250 daily communicants among the College students. During the week of the mission more Communions were distributed in the College Chapel than in any previous week for some years.

Missionary Speaks Here On National Activity

A member of the Home Missioners of America, the Rev. Raphael A. Sourd, from Glendale, Ohio, was on the campus Sunday, Feb. 21. He delivered a lecture at 7:30 in the College Theatre on his missionary work.

Need Money? Start After Literary Prize Awards Now

BY BOB DE SHON

What could you do with fifty dollars?

That may seem to be a silly question since very few people find it difficult to spend money. But it is no sillier than the thought that the fifty dollars first-prize money to be offered in the Pursley Literary Contest can be more opportunely pocketed by anyone other than yourself.

What about those war bonds you have been carelessly putting off buying until some time later? That fifty dollars would serve a great cause invested there. Or you fellows who by the end of the semester will be in khaki or blue instead of tweeds and flannels—that fifty dollars would surely help out during those first few weeks in camp.

When the question, "What could you do with fifty dollars," was asked several students on the campus, there was a variety of replies. A patriotic note was struck by John Dunn, sophomore from Crawfordville: "I believe I'd put my fifty dollars into war bonds for a safe and profitable investment."

Jim Heckle, sophomore from Youngstown, replied: "I'm sure any St. Joe man could get rid of fifty dollars without any trouble, but I think I would use mine for future education." What was probably the most typical and generally inclusive reply of all was that of Hugh Davey, sophomore from Frankfort, Ind., "Are you kidding?"

Perhaps the Pursley Literary Contest is just the thing that somewhat dormant ability of yours has been waiting for in order to really prove itself.

The Academy Corner

By Ed McElroy

Gentleman of the Week presents Peter P. Beltemacchi Jr., of Logansport, Indiana, who was born November 1, 1922, at Chicago, Illinois. Pete graduated from St. Joseph's grammar school of Logansport, Indiana.

Pete has been a member of the Academy Newman Club for two years, a member of the Camera Club for two years and also Art Editor of Twin Towers for two years. He also was the first-string right end of the Academy's first football team. He also took part in the play, "His Fathers Son."

After Pete has completed his high school career he will be subjected to immediate call to the army.

After this present conflict is over he would like to be an aeronautical engineer.

According to Academy Club room managers a tournament consisting of pool and ping-pong will be held in the very near future. Plans and rules are now being drawn up by the managers, Eddie Joseph, Jack Mallock, and John Wunderlich.

Thursday evening the seniors held their second meeting of the second semester in classroom one.

St. Joseph's Academy now has four boys with 1-A draft classifications. They are Robert McNamara, Jerome Lange, Rich Latendresse, and Peter Beltemacchi.

Capt. Bob Richert, of the Puma Cubs quintet has an average of 10.9 per game, and John Wunderlich has an average of 4.13 per game.

Coach Dick Scharf's ever-improving Academy Cubs will be the underdogs in the sectional tournament this week. The sectional tournament will start Thursday evening at seven o'clock. The Cubs will play their first game in the tournament Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock against DeMotte. The games are to be played at Rensselaer's High School.

St. Joe has been defeated by C. C. of Hammond, and Mt. Ayr twice this year. But each time, although crushed in their first meetings, they came back and nearly beat these two teams. This is evident in their scores. First game, Mt. Ayr 30, Cubs 13; second, Mt. Ayr 39, Cubs 34. First game C. C. 63, Cubs 44; second game C. C. 36, Cubs 30.

Which shows that Coach Scharf has to see his opponents play but once and he immediately can see their weakness.
